

VILLA BRAHEEM

Developed by renowned Costa Rican architect, Roderick Anderson, the villa is a masterpiece in design and has been recently featured on the cover of Costa Rica's top architectural magazine. The 5600 square feet of contemporary living space is brilliantly designed to immerse its guests into the property's natural sanctuary. Anderson surmised that a house constructed primarily of steel and glass would best be suited for a location that hosts monkeys, iguanas, parrots and tropical butterflies as its daily visitors.

The villa uniquely provides guests with two master quarters and two guest bedrooms, making it an ideal destination for two families or an unforgettable experience for four couples. Details were not spared for dining at the villa. As a guest, you are invited to access to the owners' private beach club at Prieta Beach. This state of the art 40,000 square foot facility provides for a variety of dining options including its award winning restaurant Marea, a sushi bar and sports bar. Poolside and beach service is available throughout the day under the treetops.
